

CALUMET MOURNS FOR 12 KILLED AT CHRISTMAS EVE CELEBRATION FOR CHILDREN

Heartrending Scenes Attend Rescue Work, Strikers Declare No Outside Aid Will Be Needed, but Unions Open

CAULINET, Mich., Dec. 25.—On the day set aside for rejoicing over the birth of Christ, this city mourned its dead 72 victims of a false alarm of fire. Most of the dead are children who had gone to a Christmas eve celebration in Italian hall arranged for the families of striking copper miners of this

As a result of the tragedy, thousands it is believed in a drunken man who thrust his head into the hall entrance and shouted, "Fire." Differences between the different factions in Calumet are wiped out. There is no ill feeling. There is nothing but dumb grief which is beyond the possibility of tears.

A mass meeting was held this afternoon at which a committee of 12 was appointed to visit each individual home of the bereaved families and ascertain what financial assistance is necessary. Unlimited funds are assured.

Ask No Outside Help.

With the kindest feeling for those who offered it, we ask no outside help. It states the resolution if sympathy adopted. These are our own people and it is our sacred privilege to care for their dead and to comfort the living.

The statement of President, Moore, of the Western Federation of Miners that no benefits from the citizens would be accepted, was disapproved.

The strikers also met this afternoon and named a committee to call on the victims' relatives and learn their inflicted. Five injured are in the hospitals. It said they will live.

Three little girls in the Calumet and Hecla hospital were able today to be up and about. A few lamps around a Christmas tree set up for the patients of the hospital many of the fate which had overtaken some of their brothers and sisters and the father of one of them. A boy of 12, a year of age, who was taken to one of the hospitals showed signs of life soon after but no recuperatives and no physician were immediately available and death ensued.

One couple entered the lower hall where all the bodies had been gathered to look for their missing child. Their hopes ran high when they had looked at 70 of the bodies and failed to find their loved one but they last body they viewed. The seventh first was that of the missing one.

Many Stories of Heroism.

Members of the Calumet fire department relate many instances of heroic attempts to rescue the panic-stricken people from the ill-fated hall.

Patrick Ryan arrived on the scene a few minutes after the crash occurred ing to make arrangements for the service.

The authorities so far have been unable to trace the man who is said to have gone to the state Italian hall and raised the cry of "which is supposed to have started the panic, which led to the fearful crush in the stairway. There seems to be little hope that he will be apprehended.

Official Dead List 72.

Matt Nail, a striker who lost his son in the disaster, declared the OVA came from a group of men and women toward the front of the hall. A 14-year-old girl who died this morning brought the official revised list of dead up to 72, all of whom have been identified.

POLICEMEN INJURED IN RAID ON UNEMPLOYED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—Rafael Adames, a Mexican, was killed and five policemen were injured today in a riot at the plaza when the officers started to break up a meeting of several hundred unemployed. When the police used their clubs and began to clear the streets, rocks were thrown and clubs used by the men who had been listening to speeches. Adames was one of the leaders in resisting and was shot by an officer.

Although they put up a vigorous fight, none of the rioters was armed and the police suffered injuries from clubs and stones only. The plaza finally was emptied and the disturbance ended. It is said the rioters were mostly foreigners.

CHRISTMAS PROVES LARGE, HAPPY DAY

As soon as the crowd had gathered the band stopped and the vaudeville entertainment under the management of A. E. Ballard began. Screams of delight greeted each funny act of the actors, and gasps of wonderment accompanied each contortionistic or acrobatic feat.

The ballroom of the hotel had been gorgeously decorated for the occasion and upon a huge stage in front stood Santa Claus beside a sparkling tree carrying candies and nuts. George Lender acted the part of the Saint of the Chimney and the children as they passed out in orderly manner received their presents. There was no show of greed or jealousy among the little people and they acted with demeanor befitting children who have the benefit of excellent home training.

Each child shared about alike. There were nuts, candy, horns, drums and everything imaginable for all. Each child received an order for shoes, mittens or clothing of some sort. Money with which these presents were purchased was donated by members of the lodge, individuals and many business firms. Members of the Elks lodge alone contributed more than $700.

GLOVER IS HELD FOR DE VILLIERS MURDER

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—Ignorant of the fact that their step-father was in jail accused of having murdered their father, the two small children of Daniel De Villiers, who was shot and killed here in a struggle with Roy L. Glover, a land agent of San Antonio, Tex., delightedly emptied their stockings this morning of gifts placed there by Santa Claus, as impersonated by their sorrowing mother.

Disappointed that the coroner's jury had not exonerated him yesterday at the inquest, Glover was led back to jail and late in the day was formally arraigned on the charge of murder. While the warrant was read to him, Mrs. Glover, who formerly was Ma De Villiers, was out in the thick of the final Christmas shopping rush, purchasing gifts for the two children of herself and her former husband, who lay dead in the morgue.

Glover's preliminary hearing was set for January 2, when it was expected his wife would be the chief witness for him, and tell, as she did yesterday at the inquest, of De Villiers' threats of violent action in case she remarried and of how De Villiers forced himself into Glover's home Sunday and fought with her present husband for her affections.

ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED IS TOURING CALIFORNIA

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 25.—An organized band of 175 unemployed men who have been here for the last three days continued their march south today. They started for Sanger, 12 miles distant, where they expected to stay tonight.

A committee arranged at a mass meeting Tuesday night secured sufficient rations to guarantee the men dinner and supper today. From Sanger the unemployed will march to Porterville, stopping at other small towns en route. It probably will be three weeks before they reach Bakersfield. The men have been well behaved and law-abiding. There has been no petty thievery.

This morning they passed a set of resolutions thanking the city for its generosity.

KILLED BOY TO BUY XMAS PRESENT FOR SWEETHEART

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—Louis Bundy, the boy who confessed he killed Harold Ziesche, 15-year-old drug store messenger, has refused to eat the food provided at the city jail.

By telling Police Judge Chambers that he was not yet 18 years of age, although he previously said he was between 18 and 19, the youth has delayed his arraignment on a charge of murder. If his father also swears the boy is not 18, the case probably will be transferred to the juvenile court.

Bundy telephoned an order several days ago to a druggist, asking that change for $20 accompany its delivery, and then murdered Ziesche, the messenger, that he might buy a Christmas present for a girl friend, with the loot.

CHAUFFEUR IS HELD FOR DEATH OF MAN BY AUTO

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25.—Louis Kantour, a chauffeur, was arrested late today and held in detention in connection with the killing of James McDermott, a bank teller, who was run down and killed by joy riders early today.

Kantour works for Ray Knight, a real estate dealer. He went to his employer's home at 2:30 o'clock this morning and asked for some money, saying he had "hit a man." Knight, on hearing of the death of McDermott, called up the police and told this fact.

Kantour told the police he had made the excuse that he had hit a man because he needed money. He denied that he had hit anybody.

Kantour turned his machine in at his garage at 2 a. m. It was damaged, but employees at the garage declared the damages were old ones.

PRES. WILSON SPENDS XMAS IN SOUTHLAND

In the climate, however, by wearing an overcoat, as did Dr. Cary T. Grayson, his physician, though a half dozen correspondents found overcoats a comfortable necessity. The president was warmly clothed underneath his salt and pepper suit with a heavy woolen sweater vest. He walked through an apparent enjoyment of his stroll.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Wilson had taken a short walk with Mrs. Wilson on the beach road that runs for several miles along the gulf coast. They also took a motor ride to Gulfport later, the nearest city, but spent most of the day in the square-shaped cottage which is the "winter white house" for the next three weeks. They exchanged presents, read scores of holiday greetings that came by telegraph and mail, and sat down tonight to a Christmas dinner, a happy family party.

Gets Complete Rest.
For a complete change from the city of Washington, where he has been overhauling with official tasks, the president could not have chosen a more out of the way setting. The natives are breeding the president's desire for rest and isolation by keeping hollers and idlers from the vicinity of his house.

The cottage is only one of the number that dot the shore of the Mississippi sound, the entrance to which, named Pass Christian, after the Spanish discoverer, Christiano, lies a few miles due south from the president's house. The original settlers were Spanish and French, the language of the latter still being spoken by many of the inhabitants. Some of the quaint old dwellings remain, but for the most part the shore is dotted by big bungalows and cottages.

The president's home is a false-cottage, with colonial columns and two illustrations that reach to the upper story from a well-kept lawn.

In Humble Surroundings

The house is an humble contrast to the many handsome homes which border the gulf coast, but is picturesquely set, overlooking the still waters of the Mississippi sound, and somewhat hidden by a cluster of live oaks, foris, palms and pines.

The president's plans for his vacation are much the same as on his trip to Cornish, N. H., the "summer capital" in the morning, a motor ride in the afternoon and a quiet evening at home, with absolutely no social diversions or political callers.

The golf course is 13 miles away, a distance in keeping with the president's fondness for the number 13. A Presbyterian church is not quite a half-mile away.

The president expects to have a restful vacation and town authorities are anxious that he shall have it. The cracking of torpedoes and the shooting of fireworks by which Christmas is celebrated in some parts of the south, was the only noise that the village authorities could not very well control, but the president said he enjoyed it all and the youngsters were proud of themselves.

M'ADOO WOULD MEET DEMANDS FOR NOTES SMALL DENOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—To meet an unexpected demand for notes of small denominations, Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department has appeared to congress for an appropriation of $25,000 for the use of the bureau of engraving and printing.

Should congress fail to make the appropriation, the secretary says, it would necessitate a reduction in the bureau's force of about 800 employees for the latter half of next year and make it necessary to furnish without pay for to several hundred of the 2,000 employees now engaged in the manufacture of United States notes and gold and silver certificates.

The situation has arisen, the secretary says, because the banks of the

CRITICISING THE GOVERNOR

WE take pleasure in acknowledging thus promptly and conspicuously a letter in which a reader extends to us the compliments of the season. Mr. Thomas H. James, of Hartsel, Colo., is the writer, and he begins with this ebullition of Christmas cheer:

The Gazette:
Dear Calistany Howler:
What this side of hell is Vincent?

Lack of space forbids a comprehensive explanation of just who Vincent is, but the information can easily be obtained from any one of various sources. Simon Guggenheim, for instance. The geographical allusion, though, is correct. Vincent is, most emphatically, "this side of hell," despite numerous individuals who wish he were there, instead of here. But to continue.

What right has he to stand up and ridicule the Governor of Colorado?

Can't the cat look at the king with impunity?

—who is, or was, elected by a majority of the voters of Colorado?

Wrong again. Elias got 114,055 votes out of a total of 265,791 cast, which means that there were 51,647 more people in Colorado who voted against him than voted for him. He is a minority Governor. We don't pretend, though, that this affects the validity of his title; we merely cite the figures for the sake of accuracy.

And the gaul (sic) of it all—makes all sorts of criticisms of the Governor of Colorado, misrepresents the facts, tells the Governor of Colorado what he should do, and then winds up by demanding the recall of the Governor?

But why not, Mr. James, why not? When the Governor of Colorado frankly admits that he can't do anything and doesn't know what to do, isn't it about time for somebody to tell him? And haven't you, or Vincent, or ourselves, or anybody else, just as much right to tell him as the next fellow? Upon what meat doth this our Ammons feed, that he hath grown so great that nobody can tell him where to get off?

I am in no way interested in the dog fight taking place in the southern part of the state.

Glad to meet a man who isn't interested even in the purely practical question of the price of coal. But Mr. James lives on a ranch, and perhaps he burns wood. Anyway, isn't it a rather frivolous dismissal of a serious matter to apply the term "dog fight" to a great industrial conflict in which thousands of men are engaged, thousands of others are made to suffer, lives are lost, and incalculable financial damage is inflicted?

I do not consider it the duty of the Governor of our state to settle dog fights, and that is all it is, and one side is eating the hog as much as the other.

Passing over the mixed metaphor which involves hogs in a dog fight, may we inquire whether it is not the duty of the Governor to protect life and property, and to prevent, if possible, enormous industrial losses?

It seems to me that The Gazette is doing more harm than good—

That's a matter of opinion—We think differently.

You won't amount to much when the entire state of Colorado has a chance to vote on "your" recall.

Why "our" recall? We haven't even suggested it. We have merely printed, as news, the fact that a good many others are agitating it.

The trouble with Mr. James seems to be that he is imbued with too much respect for the office of the Governor merely as an office, and regardless of the man who fills it. We know of no mandate constitutional, statutory, or divine which makes the Governor of Colorado exempt from criticism. He is just an ordinary mortal, like the rest of us, and when he errs we have a right to remind him of it. He has none of the divinity which doth hedge about a king.

NAVAL INCREASE

THE proposal to declare a "naval holiday" that is, to limit naval expenditures, by international agreement, for one year has stirred the advocates of a big navy to unusual activity. The naval holiday suggestion was made by Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the British admiralty, and a resolution endorsing it was recently passed by the House, at Washington, by a large majority. The idea is not likely to be put into effect, in the near future at least, but it has given the militarists something to worry about just the same.

The Navy League, organized to create interest in sea power and secure larger appropriations for naval increase, combats the naval holiday idea with figures showing how much cheaper it is to maintain a big fleet than to pay pensions. Since the Revolution, it says, the nation has spent $4,383,000,000 for pensions, which is about one and one-third millions more than it has spent on the navy. Yet an adequate fleet would have either prevented or considerably shortened the wars which are responsible for his huge pension outlay. It contends that the Civil War could have been ended in six months if the Government had possessed a navy capable of effectively blockading the whole Southern coast.

It is easy to produce an impressive array of figures on either side of the question, whether to show the awful cost of war or the cost of preventing or trying to prevent it by maintaining great armies and navies. Militarism is enormously costly, and in theory, at least, it is sheer folly. But until a better method of preserving peace is devised there seems to be no escape from the annual burden of renewing armaments. Mr. Churchill's naval holiday idea is excellent, but unfortunately it is not immediately practicable. Germany will not adopt it because it would maintain Great Britain in her present advantageous position for at least another year and Germany is bending every energy to overtake her rival. And if Germany refuses it the plan fails.

President Wilson, in his recent message, urged Congress to return to the former policy of appropriating for two super-dreadnoughts a year, and if this is done the American navy will be kept at least in third place, which probably is all that is necessary for the national safety. The German building program, inspired by jealousy of Great Britain, is so ambitious that to keep pace with it would impose an altogether unnecessary burden on the American people. Anyway, there is small possibility of the United States ever being threatened with war with either of the two nations which outclass it in sea power.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE GAZETTE:

Dear Calistany Howler: Who this side of hell is "Vincent"—"Vincent," who you turn your first page over to, that he may tell your readers how our state should be run.

What right has he to stand up and ridicule the Governor of Colorado, who is, or was, elected by a majority of the voters of Colorado? And the gaul of it all—to use your paper that he may tell Governor Ammons how to run his office. What he should have done, etc.

Vincent "demands to know," makes all sorts of criticisms of the Governor of Colorado, misrepresents the facts, tells the Governor of Colorado what he should do, and then winds up by demanding the recall of the Governor.

I am in no way interested in the dog fight taking place in the southern part of the state, and I am not in politics in any way. I am a taxpayer and enjoy paying taxes to suppress anarchy. I do not consider it the duty of the Governor of our state to settle dog fights, and that is all it is, and one side is eating the hog as much as the other.

It seems to me that The Gazette is doing more harm than good, and you may rest assured that while you can get 100 calamity howlers together for a big feed in any of our Colorado cities, you won't amount to much when the entire state of Colorado has a chance to vote on "your" recall.

Just push it along if you want the sober-minded, unbiased citizens and voters of Colorado, who prefer to say little but stand ready to show their colors, and make Governor Ammons the most popular Governor Colorado ever had by simply showing around any such movement if you dare start it.

THOMAS H. JAMES
Hartsel, Colo., December 25

DIVORCE AGAIN

TO THE EDITOR OF THE GAZETTE:

Hitherto it was considered that the young man was the only one who knew how to "sow wild oats," but it needs no proof that not a few young women make pretty good running mates. If proof were needed the physicians' records would be ample, but these records do not contain all the salient facts that might be adduced in this connection.

An immoral man or a perverted woman before marriage is not a very good guaranty of fidelity after marriage. The extinct volcano breaks forth unexpectedly when conditions change. Eugenics (well born) is a beautifully honorable term, but the race would die off if such a principle were faithfully and impartially applied in marriage. We love our parentage.

CODE AND ENDS

Well, it's your own fault now you have that itching after feeling. You would eat and drink too much, you know.

Begin today to do your 1914 Christmas shopping early. You'll find some big bargains these next few days.

And what's the odds if there are a few more dollars added to your January bills? If you're going into bankruptcy anyway, you might as well fail for a million as for a thousand.

No wonder there are so many bright and sparkling new resolutions launched on New Year's. The days of remorse following Christmas breed new resolutions by the peck.

That correspondent of The Gazette who calls the coal strike a "dog fight," and says the governor has no business interfering, has a new conception of what a governor is for. Purely ornamental.

But, of course, taxpayers who like to pay taxes might be expected to have other ideas. The number of these citizens, however, who have no objection to paying no matter how high their taxes amount, are lamentably few. And the great majority are inclined to believe that the governor ought to do something to stop a dog fight that is costing the state $5,000 per day—besides exorbitant prices for coal.

It is quite annoying for people who clean the snow off their sidewalks to be obliged to walk on the uneven path in the snow which still lies on a neighbor's sidewalk. Boulder Herald.

In Colorado Springs as in Boulder.

It will be noticed that President Wilson never on any occasion mentions the Progressive party. But that doesn't mean that he doesn't often think of it. It hants his dreams, as it does the dreams of other Democrats who want harmony and party regularity.

A sad Christmas this will be for New Castle and this community, Garfield County Democrat.

And with an entire community bereaved, as it is Newcastle by the Vulcan mine disaster, who is there who shall say that in settlement of the coal mine controversy the state shall merely look on, a disinterested bystander? How the state no responsibility whatever for the Vulcan dead?

Fort Collins commissioners have appropriated a generous fund for the preparation of a pageant for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of that city.

It is this to begin organizing boys' and girls' clubs in Larimer county—Fort Collins Courier.

Why not form boys' clubs in Ft. Pasa too?

It is not true that the supreme court is sleeping over the tax question; it is simply doing. Boulder Herald.

Poke 'em in the ribs. It's time we were knowing what the tax situation in Colorado was.

Oh, for a "chickoo" to move super-louder snow—Fort Collins Courier.

It wouldn't meet with an unwelcome reception, even here.

Despite the fact that 30,000 jobless men are waiting the state, the Los Angeles Times has just issued a magnificent printed and illustrated mid-winter edition, designed to lure still others to southern California. But, unless you're rich and don't need to work, stay away. There were more homeless Christmas in Los Angeles than in any city in the land.

A New York city woman takes up a page in a Sunday paper telling why she needs $50,000 per year for her two children. It would keep every widow and orphan in Newcastle in comfort for years.

American Telegraph and Telephone stock bounded up after the company had been dissolved, just as Standard Oil had previously done. No wonder the big companies are falling over themselves in their eagerness to be "dissolved."

Parcel Post equal to big test here, testified the New York Sun, one of the most consistent and bitter opponents of public ownership.

The New York Sun has interviewed leaders all over the country as to the effect of the Republican organization scheme. Republicans are divided as to the probable effect of the national committee's action, while Progressives are united in their opposition.

As a man says, it won't make any difference with them what the Republicans do about their convention representation.

New York times up its nose at that sale of 19 acres in the heart of London for $15,000,000, claiming that five acres containing Wall Street could not be purchased for even $50,000,000.

The general public is not especially concerned about the ownership of telephones and telegraph facilities so long as the service is good and the rates are reasonable. Washington Star.

But it is growing definitely suspicious that the present rates are far from reasonable.

Senator Jones, progressive Republican of the state of Washington, has issued a call to the Progressives of his commonwealth advising them to return to the Republican party.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

It may be voted to retain the instantaneorum in the senate assuming that the present rates are far from reasonable.

If Postmaster General Burleson's plan of public ownership of telegraphs and telephones is practically—legally and financially—government ownership is pretty certain to win.—Kansas City Star.

But the best Telegraph will hasten to assure the Kansas City paper that it is in the highest degree impracticable.

The Sherman anti-trust law, like John Brown's body, goes marching on. Boulder Camera.

The comparison is far more apt than the Camera intended. It was John Brown's body that went marching on, and that's just what the Sherman law is doing, so far as effective control of business is concerned.

CODE AND ENDS

Well, it's your own fault now you have that itching after feeling. You would eat and drink too much, you know.

Begin today to do your 1914 Christmas shopping early. You'll find some big bargains these next few days.

And what's the odds if there are a few more dollars added to your January bills? If you're going into bankruptcy anyway, you might as well fail for a million as for a thousand.

No wonder there are so many bright and sparkling new resolutions launched on New Year's. The days of remorse following Christmas breed new resolutions by the peck.

That correspondent of The Gazette who calls the coal strike a "dog fight," and says the governor has no business interfering, has a new conception of what a governor is for. Purely ornamental.

But, of course, taxpayers who like to pay taxes might be expected to have other ideas. The number of these citizens, however, who have no objection to paying no matter how high their taxes amount, are lamentably few. And the great majority are inclined to believe that the governor ought to do something to stop a dog fight that is costing the state $5,000 per day—besides exorbitant prices for coal.

It is quite annoying for people who clean the snow off their sidewalks to be obliged to walk on the uneven path in the snow which still lies on a neighbor's sidewalk. Boulder Herald.

In Colorado Springs as in Boulder.

It will be noticed that President Wilson never on any occasion mentions the Progressive party. But that doesn't mean that he doesn't often think of it. It hants his dreams, as it does the dreams of other Democrats who want harmony and party regularity.

A sad Christmas this will be for New Castle and this community, Garfield County Democrat.

And with an entire community bereaved, as it is Newcastle by the Vulcan mine disaster, who is there who shall say that in settlement of the coal mine controversy the state shall merely look on, a disinterested bystander? How the state no responsibility whatever for the Vulcan dead?

Fort Collins commissioners have appropriated a generous fund for the preparation of a pageant for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of that city.

It is this to begin organizing boys' and girls' clubs in Larimer county—Fort Collins Courier.

Why not form boys' clubs in Ft. Pasa too?

It is not true that the supreme court is sleeping over the tax question; it is simply doing. Boulder Herald.

Poke 'em in the ribs. It's time we were knowing what the tax situation in Colorado was.

Year End Sale

This Important Annual Event Commences at Hubbard's at 9:30 a. m. Today and Will Close at the End of 1913

"The Climax of a Great Merchandising Year"

Hundreds of Bargain Lots Will Be Ready This Morning We cannot Say Just What They Will Be at This Time, But We Know You Will Not Be Disappointed! Look for the BLUE SIGNS!

C.A.
Hubbard

This is primarily a sale of short end, broken lots and slow-moving merchandise some left over from Christmas, some from the fall and a little is good winter merchandise for the season now at hand. Merchandise, that, while "desirable" to the consumer, it is good business for us to be rid of, and that before Lenten time soon to follow.

A clearance of merchandise that we no longer want, that will be effected by price concessions of importance to everyone. You cannot afford to let this opportunity to save pass by unattended! While this sale by no means includes "everything" in our store there will be hundreds of special lots out on counters at genuine price reductions. Watch every daily paper in Colorado Springs for details!

Our reasons for starting this sale the day following Christmas are good: First The year end is logically the time for such a clearance. Second Many people receive money for Christmas to whom these bargains will prove attractive. Third We desire to have our store fresh and clean for the January White Sales. Fourth We have an organized sales force capable of handling the crowd.

Special Blue Price Signs will mark the bargain lots that we will place on sale. Throughout the store you will find them! A lot of lace here, a group of silks, a broken lot of neckwear, fancy linens, odd handkerchiefs, etc., right on through the store. Some of the assortments large with others very small. Some will be advertised later, others will not. It is a sale for you to come and see, investigate!

The Bargains are here Follow the crowds to the great Year End Sale! Do not let the lack of price quotations in this advertisement keep you away. Come! For, excepting in the Garments and Millinery, which were unaffected by the Christmas rush, it is impossible to quote prices today being given at Earl's court in London last week at the exposition.

Miss Collins is seen in the Marzanka which speaks much for her persuasive power, for no financial promises would persuade Osho Yetagovich who was connected with the Soviet Harem of London, to teach to a foreigner the beloved dance of his faraway people until Miss Collins had practised the imaginary dance, considered by him to be so far inferior to the true spirit of his country he felt himself forced to show the dance at its heat and so unusual are its posturings and swarming steps that Miss Collier's spirit was a imitation before she won the grudging praise of her fellow men.

· WITHIN THE LAW ·

It is a most interesting thing in America, as I said, to find the free land to which the man has no access and that is the law.

It is the starting declaration of Bayard Veiller, author of the gripping American play "Within the Law," the dramatic sensation of the year in New York and London in which the American Film Company will present "The American Way" of the "Good House"

In the second act of Within the Law, when Police Inspector Burke tells Mary Turner he will arrest her unless she leaves town at once, the girl laughs at him and serves him with law, a race track can get an injunction and laugh at the law, a railroad can restrain its employees from striking. Why shouldn't I use the law, too? I have money. I can buy all the lawyers I want. There's nothing you can't do with the law if you have money.

There," said Mr. Veiller in an interview, "is the American situation of today in one speech. There is no law for the poor. I am not speaking of justice—for I think the time is long past for an earnest struggle for an poor man I mean literally that there is no law for the poor man. Without any money he is beaten before he steps into a courtroom."

THE ENGAGEMENT TOOTH

placed in a gold setting placed as crown to one of her front teeth—he paid for by her prospective husband and fly and fly we may distinguish the engaged girl by her glittering tooth—and the married woman by two of the same. But if it is ruled that for each engagement and each marriage both men and women are called "lentils" will be kept back and some women won't be able to get it to sound—this is the same as the falling in the time of activity. Of course the position is freakish. But it's wrong. It's even when you see

I know that she never has been as good as for a girl but I think she is a very good girl.
